TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.—Less than twenty-five years ago, the first successful experiment with electro-telegraphy was made, though it had been the subject of investigation some years previous. A wire was stretched from Washington to Baltimore in 1844, and soon after extended to New York, and very rapidly throughout the country and the world, till at length the earth is girdled, and time and space are literally annihilated. The author of this wonderful discovery still lives, in the enjoyment of a green old age, rich in honors and the substantial rewards of his genius.

Twenty-five years ago ocean steam navigation was a new thing, and its practicability had just been demonstrated. True, years before, a little steamer known as the Savannah, had crossed the Atlantic, but her daring feat had long been forgotten, never, perhaps, to be recalled, had not the Western World been waked up one morning by the astonishing news that the Sirius, a small English-built steamer, had arrived from London. The Sirius was soon followed by the Great Western, and thenceforth ocean steam navigation became a fixed fact. Before there had been no steamships, only steamboats—useful craft on lakes and rivers, and other inland waters—but the idea that steam could be made available for navigation of the ocean had long been scouted in high places.

Twenty-five years ago, there were no steamships of war but ocean steam navigation having been demonstrated as practicable, the nations ceased to build sailing vessels for war purposes, and rapidly substituted steamers.

Twenty-five years ago most of the inventions of agricultural machinery, which now so lighten the labors of the farmer, while they increase his gains, were unknown. Who ever heard of the reaping machine till it made a sensation at the London Exposition in 1850? It must have had a brief existence before that, for it was sent a perfected engine, from Chicago to London, but how few had ever heard of it; and now who would think of working even a twenty-acre farm without its aid?

Twenty-five years ago there were railroads with locomotive engines, but they date only a few years anterior. The writer of this little remembers reading the accounts of Mr. Stephenson's first success in England, and he has not forgotten when the first short line was put in operation in this country. Twenty years ago railroad connection between the Hudson River and Lake Erie was scarcely completed, the Erie and the Hudson River lines were hardly thought of, and in the great West, where the railroad may be said to have achieved its greatest triumphs, it had not existence at all. If the last twenty-five years did not witness the origin of the railroad, it has seen its wonderful expansion until this country and western Europe have been converted into giant grids of iron by the crossing and inter-lacing of iron bands, and all other modes of land travel have become nearly obsolete, and a five mile journey in an old fashioned stage coach is more to be dreaded than a hundred miles in a rail-car.

Twenty-five years ago California was un-explored and uninhabited, save by Indians and a few Mexican adventures and out-laws, and its wealth of precious ores was a well kept secret; and the other gold-producing States and Territories —Nevada, Colorado, Arizona, Montana, and Idaho—now so familiar to every ear, had no existence, save as they formed parts of the great unexplored far-West of the Rocky Mountain region.

Twenty-five years ago a hundred thousand dollars was regarded as a magnificent fortune, to which, though many aspired, few attained; and the number in the metropolis of the Western world whose estates reached this figure could be counted on one's fingers. There are more than one hundred thousand dollars, there are more than twenty-five years ago of those whose entire possessions amounted to as much. Twenty-five years ago there were possibly, half a dozen millionaires in the whole country. To-day they may be counted by hundreds.

Twenty-five years ago the population of the Empire State was less than two and a half millions. To-day it cannot be less than five millions.

Twenty-five years ago the population of the entire country was only seventeen millions.— To-day it is nearly forty millions.

Twenty-five years ago there were twenty-eight States in the Union. To-day there are thirty-six, with half a dozen more to be added within a few years.

The world moves; but such wonderful strides as it has made within the last twenty-five years former generations never saw. Every department of life has felt and seen its accelerated motion; and it is almost enough to make one feel giddy to look back over the last quarter of a century and witness the rapid succession of discoveries in art and science, and the wonderful increase in wealth and population.—Scientific American.

A large meeting was held on Thursday evening at Cooper Institute, N. Y., to aid in the establishment of a national asylum on the Potomac for disabled soldiers and sailors. Horace Greely presided. Addresses were delivered by Lieutenant Governor Woolford, General O. O.
Howard, Governor Hamilton, of Texas, and others. A contribution was raised in aid of the object. About $25,000 or $30,000 only are needed to establish the institution.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue advertises for proposals for about $5,000,000 worth of stationery for the year ending June 30, 1867, for assessors and collectors east of the Rocky Mountains, embracing about two hundred and forty collection districts.

The fine structure over the Susquehanna river at Havre-de-Grace is nearly complete, with the exception of the draw and one end span on the east side of the river. The railroad company intends to run trains over the bridge by the 25th of November.

SUMMER GARDEN.
Having leased the establishment heretofore known as the Summer Garden, No. 182, King street, 3d door west of Washington street, I would beg leave to introduce myself to the citizens of Alexandria, and also to the travelling community, as a caterer for the strictest epicures.
The Garden being a pleasant resort, within reach of all, I am determined, as far as my part to keep every thing in the strictest order, so that their shall be nothing to mar the pleasure of my guests.
The larder will always be filled with the best the market affords—furnished at a fair living price.
My arrangements are such that I will be prepared to furnish Fresh Oyster by the gallon or otherwise, to suit city or country orders.
Oysters served up in every style at the house, together with meals to order at all hours.
N. B.—All I ask is a fair trial, feeling perfectly confident I will give satisfaction to all w. may favor me with a call.

GUANO—REED'S AMMONIATED SU-PERPHOSPHATE OF LIME. The best superphosphate yet offered to the farmer, possessing all the activity of Peruvian Guano, but being far more durable in its effects.
It contains a large amount of animal matter in a highly concentrated form, which, combined with its soluble bone phosphate of lime, cannot fail to render it very valuable as a fertilizer.— Notwithstanding we believe it to be the best super-phosphate in the market, yet, by a process peculiar in its manufacture, whereby the expenses are lessened, we are enabled to sell it very low, with a liberal discount to dealers.
